

Information
on the Procedure of the Complex (Comprehensive) Examination in the Doctoral Programme of the Faculty of Education and Psychology<sup>1</sup>
2018

The complex (comprehensive) exam has its specialities regarding not only the professional content and the legal consequences of the result but also the administrative and organisational issues related to it. It is important to highlight that the complex (comprehensive) exam can only be retaken once in case of a fail with strict restrictions. In addition, the student status of the PhD student terminates if the complex exam is not passed after the end of their 4th active semester regardless the reasons of the fail.

The procedure described as follows summarizes the processes related to the organisation and the execution of the complex examination and its administrative tasks according to legislative and policy requirements (see annex no.1).

1. Course Registration and its Supervision

The complex examination is part of the doctoral curriculum (DNEV16-X, DEDU16-X, DPSZ16-X, DPSY16-X), which is announced by the doctoral school and students involved register for in the course registration period via the Neptun system. Course registration is a basic requirement in order to absolve each additional administrative task.

The Student Affairs and Registrar's Office (TH) checks the course registrations of all active, four-semester PhD students after the end of the course registration period:

- if students have taken the course related to the complex exam,
- if students can complete the 84 academic and 24 research credits (altogether at least 108 credits) required in the first, academic and research phase of the programme with the credits that had been obtained in the previous semesters and the ones have been taken in the relevant semester in Neptun and on the credit application form. All this is done as a quasi-absolutorium check.

After this supervision the Student Affairs and Registrar's Office notifies all students to resolve the possible discrepancies, informs students about the deadline and the way of registration for the complex exam and about the possible legal consequences of missing to register for it.

2. Registration for the Complex Exam

A double registration is necessary for the complex exam. In addition to the course registration period, a separate application is required by 31st March in the Spring semester and by 31st October in the Autumn semester via Neptun (University Operational Regulations §51) by filling in an online application form within Administration / Requests. It is necessary to attach the following documents to the application form by clicking on the 'Attachment' option:

- a research plan according to the Faculty Doctoral Regulations §19 (2) b), and
- a declaration and assessment of the topic supervisor according to the University Doctoral Regulations §49 (2).

The registration process cannot be interrupted. The application form cannot be submitted without the required attachments, or incomplete.

Based on the submitted application form it is checked by the Registrar's Office if students have all the required 108 credits together with the courses taken in the relevant semester in order to be able to sit for the complex exam. However, they do not check the content of the attached research plan or the declaration and evaluation of the supervisor. In case of an insufficient application, based on the notification according to paragraph no. 1 and the tight schedule of organising the exam there is no possibility for supplying any missing documents or data at a later time. In case of missing the registration deadline students can submit a substantiation (acc.to Rules and Regulations of the university §155) the acceptance of which will be decided by the Head of the Student Affairs and Registrar's Office.

3. Organisation of the Complex Exam

Based on the applications the doctoral school

- will set the courses and comprehensive questions of the complex exam related to each student,
- will invite the members of the examination committee, the alternate members and the reviewers of the research plan,
- will schedule the exams and retake exams with at least 15 days provided between the complex exam and the retake exam,
- will announce the exams in Neptun and arrange the rooms for the occasions.

The date of the complex exam can be set for the examination period but the exam period in the Spring semester can be extended till July 15 by the Doctoral Council of Education and Psychology regarding the number of examinees and exams, for the proposal of the doctoral school. Retake exams can be organised until February 15 in the Autumn semester and September 15 in the Spring semester. The dates of these exams and the makeup of the exam committees need to be selected together with all the other exams (University Doctoral Regulations §52 /2/).

The attributes of the complex exam such as the personal requirements, committee and date are decided by the Doctoral Council of Education and Psychology based on the proposal of the doctoral school.

All students are informed about the above attributes of the complex exam in a written message via Neptun 21 days prior to the exam by the Student Affairs and Registrar's Office. The same information is sent to the supervisors as well. At the same time, the Student Affairs and Registrar's Office registers students for the exams announced by the doctoral school in Neptun.

4. The Conduct of the Complex Exam

The student is obliged to attend the allotted exam. In case of a certified absence from the exam the procedure is defined by the Rules and Regulations of the university (§71 (7) and §410 (4)). With regard to personal circumstances claiming special consideration students can hand in a request with the necessary documents attached 72 hours prior to the beginning of the exam in order to postpone the complex exam. In the case of this request there is no possibility for supplying any missing documents or data at a later time. The possible postponement of the complex exam is decided by the Chairman of the Doctoral Council of Education and Psychology. In case of an exam postponement the postponed exam date is the same as the retake date and students are registered for it in Neptun by the Student Affairs and Registrar's Office.

In case the postponed or retaken exam cannot be held in the relevant retake period students can sit for it in the examination period in the subsequent semester (Faculty Doctoral Regulations §29 /3/). This shall be ordered by the decision of the Chairman of the Faculty Doctoral Council accepting the absence from and the postponement of the complex exam. In this case the student cannot have an active student status in the following semester, he/she will have a passive status and will have to apply for the complex exam in a request form instead of the online application via the Neptun system, this time without the necessity of any attachments. The credits of the completed complex exam will then be registered in Neptun in the next active semester.

The complex exam is composed of a theoretical and a dissertation part. The theoretical part includes two subjects (the list of the subjects is included in the study plan of the doctoral school) and in case of a fail it can be retaken once in the relevant semester. The dissertation part cannot be retaken in case of a fail (University Doctoral Regulations §54 /4/).

The combined result of the complex exam is marked on a two-grade scale (pass / fail). It is entered in Neptun by the doctoral school and a Minutes of Examination is prepared and sent to the Students Affairs and Registrar's Office after the conduct of the complex examinations.

The complex examination shall be taken in public, the topic supervisor of the doctoral student may also be present.

5. The Consequences of not Completing the Complex Exam

If the student

- misses to take the complex exam in Neptun during the course registration period of his/her 4th active semester despite having been informed about it according to paragraph no. 1 above, or misses applying for the complex exam via Neptun, or fails to pass the exam the Student Affairs and Registrar's Office terminates his/her student status on the last day of the (retake) exam period in Neptun;
- cannot take the complex exam because he/she hasn't obtained the required 108 credits for courses and research in the first, academic and research phase of the programme the Student Affairs and Registrar's Office prepares an official notice of dismissal for the Faculty Doctoral Council while they inform the head of the doctoral school about the situation. The Chairman of the Faculty Doctoral Council shall decide on the dismissal by their assigned competence.

THE COMPLEX (COMPREHENSIVE) EXAMINATION

Nftv. §53 (1) Doctoral programmes shall involve study, research and reporting activities performed in the framework of preparing candidates, either individually or in groups, for obtaining a doctoral degree, in a manner adapted to the specifics of the disciplines concerned and the individual needs of the students, and shall comprise a study and research stage and a research and dissertation stage. At the end of the fourth semester of the doctoral programme, students shall be required to close the study and research stage with a comprehensive examination aimed to measure and assess progress made in study and research, the completion of which shall be a condition for the commencement of the research and dissertation stage.

(3) Subject to the fulfilment of the admission requirements and the requirements of the doctoral programme, participation in doctoral programmes shall be open to candidates who prepare for obtaining a doctoral degree individually. In such case student status shall be acquired at the time of and upon acceptance of the application for the comprehensive examination.

R. §12/A (1) The complex (comprehensive) examination is to be organised along with the principles of the Hungarian Doctoral Council according to Nftv. §72 (5) The requirements of the comprehensive examination have to be communicated together with the announcement of the doctoral programme defined in the operational regulations of the doctoral school.

(3) The complex (comprehensive) examination is composed of two parts:

a) the theoretical part assesses the examinee's up-to-date theoretical and methodological knowledge together with his/her expertise in the literature of the relevant discipline and art, and

b) in the dissertation part the examinee demonstrates his/her academic or artistic progress.

(4) An unsuccessful complex exam can be retaken only once in the relevant semester.

(5) A minutes are to be taken of the complex exam. The results of the exam are to be announced on the day of the second part of the examination. The complex exam is marked on a two-grade scale: pass or fail.

§48 (1) The comprehensive examination is a comprehensive evaluation of the Student's knowledge acquired in the training and research phase of the doctoral programme and the Student's preparedness for the programme's research and dissertation phase.

(2) The comprehensive examination is comprised of two main parts. The theoretical part assesses the examinee's theoretical knowledge while in the dissertation part the examinee shall demonstrate his/her level of academic progress.

(3) In the theoretical part of the comprehensive examination, the examinee shall be tested in at least two subjects. The material and list of subjects that can be tested is contained in the curriculum of the doctoral school. The theoretical part of the comprehensive examination may also contain a written part.

(4) In the dissertation part of the comprehensive examination the examinee shall give account of his/her lexical knowledge in the form of a lecture, give account of his/her research results, presents his/her research plan pertaining to the research and dissertation phase of the doctoral programme and the planned schedule of the preparation and publication of the doctoral dissertation. The faculty doctoral regulations and the curriculum may prescribe that the Student give account of his/her research activities (component study, research report, research plan, hereinafter jointly referred to as: research documentation). The assessment criteria of the oral and – if compulsory – written research documentation and the deadline for its submission are regulated by the faculty doctoral regulations and the curriculum.

Conditions of Applying for the Comprehensive Examination

§49 (1) Doctoral Students taking part in doctoral programmes who have obtained the required academic and research credits in the academic and research phase of the programme laid out in the curriculum of the doctoral programme, not including the credits awarded for the comprehensive examination under the curriculum, shall be eligible to apply for the comprehensive examination.

(2) The topic supervisor of the Student applying for the comprehensive examination shall assess the Student's performance in the academic and research phase of the doctoral programme and give his/her opinion on whether the Student can be granted permission to take the comprehensive examination.

R. §12 In case of individual preparation

a) the process of the obtainment of the doctoral degree is based on a request and begins with completing the complex examination;

b) the conditions of the admission and the acceptance of the application for the complex exam are defined in the operational regulations of the doctoral school;

c) in case of a successful complex exam the higher educational institute accepts the required no. of credits set for the condition to be able to apply for the complex exam by approving to accept further credits based on formerly obtained knowledge and competencies, for special request.

§50 (1) Application for the comprehensive examination and the obtainment of the doctoral degree without preliminary doctoral training shall also be open to individuals who received their degrees no less than five years prior to their application, meet the admission criteria of the doctoral school and for whom it can be determined based on their professional and academic achievements that their academic works meet at least the assessment criteria of the academic and research phase of the doctoral programme.

(2) For the purpose of assessing whether the candidate meets the admission criteria, the faculty doctoral regulations may prescribe that the applicant take an entrance exam.

(3) On the basis of the request – and if prescribed by the faculty doctoral regulations, the successful entrance exam – the council of the doctoral school shall carry out a habitus investigation on the applicant's admission or the granting of permission for the applicant to take the comprehensive examination based on the detailed opinion of the head of the relevant doctoral programme or the head of the department. Over the course of the habitus investigation, the council shall assess the applicant's curriculum vitae, academic performance prior to his/her submission of the request, academic publications, other academic works, lecture activities, etc.

(4) The result of the habitus investigation shall be expressed in form of credits allocated in the curriculum for research and lecture tasks. A minutes shall be prepared of the result of the investigation complete with a justification. If the applicant acquires the number of credits necessary to be granted permission to take the comprehensive examination, the council of the doctoral school, based on the result of the habitus investigation, shall recommend to the discipline doctoral council that the applicant be granted permission to take the exam. When calculating the credits, the proportion of academic and research credits pertaining to students taking part in organised trainings shall not have to be taken into account.

(5) The applicant shall pay the sum stipulated in Annex 4 of the present Regulations for the habitus investigation and the comprehensive examination, unless the applicant is employed by the University.

(6) The decision the applicant's admission or granting the applicant permission to take the comprehensive examination shall be taken by the discipline doctoral council based on the recommendation of the council of the doctoral school.

(7) The provisions laid out in paragraphs (3)-(6) shall also apply to comprehensive examination applicants a) who after obtaining the pre-degree certificate submit their doctoral dissertation and request the initiation of the critique procedure following the expiry of the deadline specified in Section 54 (4) of Nftv. and the deadline prolonged by a grant of equity referred to in Section 59 of the present Regulations,

b) whose critique procedure was terminated by the discipline doctoral council for the reason specified in Section 71 (3) of the present Regulations or on whom the University Doctoral Council did not confer the title of PhD, c) who obtained their pre-degree certificates in the same academic discipline but in a different doctoral school.
